The following are listed on the accompanying PTO-1449 and are in a non-English language:

1. Japanese Patent Application No. 2002-152439 discloses a communication device which activates only when it needs to send an image of command data (Fig. 1). The relevance of this document is also discussed at pages 2 and 3 of the specification of the present application. An English-language abstract is enclosed as well.
2. Japanese Patent Application No. 2002-149510 discloses a communication device which selects one of its client devices to connect with their attribute information. The relevance of this document is also discussed at page 3 of the specification of the present application. An English-language abstract is enclosed as well.

This submission does not represent that a search has been made or that no better art exists and does not constitute an admission that each or all of the listed documents are material or constitute "prior art." If the Examiner applies any of the documents as prior art against any claim in the application and applicants determine that the cited documents do not constitute "prior art" under United States law, applicants reserve the right to present to the office the relevant facts and law regarding the appropriate status of such documents. Applicants further reserve the right to take appropriate action to establish the patentability of the disclosed invention over the listed documents, should one or more of the documents be applied against the claims of the present application.
